

Deborah L. Moore (Deb), Director (deborah.moore1@cnu.edu; 757-594-7048)

Deb has more than a dozen years of experience working in the field of assessment. She has published several scholarly articles, presented at numerous regional and national assessment conferences, and consulted with various colleges in the North, South, and Midwest.

Prior to her 2009 appointment as Director of Assessment, Evaluation, and Accreditation at Christopher Newport University (Newport News, VA), she served in assessment positions at:

- University of Kentucky from 2002-2008 (Director)
- University of Maryland at College Park from 1996-1999 (Assessment Specialist)
- Ball State University from 1987-1996 (Associate Director)

She is knowledgeable about a wide range of assessment practices and methods used at the institutional, program, or course level. She provides workshops and consults with groups implementing student learning outcome assessments, designing and validating assessment tools, preparing for program review and accreditation, and developing evaluation components for research grants.

Deb completed her doctoral coursework and qualifying exams in Psychology/Assessment and Measurement at James Madison University, a program that specifically prepares professionals for outcome assessment careers in higher education. She also has a master's degree in Educational Psychology from Purdue University and a bachelor's degree in Psychology from University of Richmond (VA).
